

Includes

- busy days of processes
- Emotional Intelligence training
- Multicultural awareness
- experienced facilitators
- free parking
- participant list
- post workshop mentoring
- insights into being a better person, leader, boss, parent, spouse
- lunch and snacks included

Tuition
$295

Register now to reserve your spot online

<http://www.gofortheroar.com>

For workshop information call or email
Gleb Gladwin CPCC, or
Dr. Kai Sorensen PH.D.
leaders@gofortheroar.com
801-865-5899

The Courage to Lead, to Risk

Leadership comes in as many flavors as Baskin Robbins ice cream. Leadership styles include many variations of the following categories:

Authoritive - Needed in critical and urgent situations requiring clear, fast, decisive action

Collaborative - Building consensus and teams to create a shared victory in planning and execution

Demonstrative - Leadership by example, doing exactly what you ask your employees to do

Instructive - Teaching or coaches people to the desired conclusion

Inspirational - Effective where the leader appeals to emotion or a higher cause making the project take on special status and literally exciting people to higher production levels

Supportive - This style can be a combinative of several of the above where the leader takes on a very compassionate stance creating people who feel heard and loved and produce results out of genuine concern.

While many leaders in the past have been hired specifically to "make things happen" and the authoritative style can sometimes get all the headlines, the really great leaders over the long haul are those who approach leadership wearing a tool belt of all of these styles. Different tools for different jobs builds trust, loyalty and better teams.

We extend the learning from the Head, Heart and Soul of Leadership and look at how to apply it to modern Leadership.

INVEST IN YOURSELF.
FIRST CHALLENGE, WHAT DO ALL THESE GREAT LEADERS HAVE IN COMMON?

Copyright 2005

Go For The Roar Workshops L.L.C.

An experiential leadership training for women and men of courage

Leadership Intensive

THIS WORKSHOP RUNS FROM 9 AM - 5 PM

Leadership is God's gift to all of us ... revealed under fire, sometimes when we least expect or want it! We make choices to suppress it or avoid it, it takes courage to embrace it!